CHAIRMANS REPORT

We have arrived at the end of another fantastic season of BOIDC cricket that was again affected by covid-19.

Our original plan to play the 'normal' mix of one day and two day cricket was thrown into turmoil mid-season, and the committee responded by replacing the remaining two day rounds with one day matches. The finals series were also converted to 50 over one day matches which the committee felt would create the strongest finals series possible under the circumstances.

The end result was a lot of white ball cricket, with only 1 two day round being played. St Pat's Old Boys went one step further than last season to win the grand final.

We had determined prior to the season to extend the finals to a 5 team series. In hindsight the original plan with two day cricket was a bit clunky, but covid saved us in that respect as we were able to roll out a more typical 5 team series when it changed to one day cricket.

In the season proper, Cavaliers headed the points table for all but one week during the season, and looked to be in a good position to take out their seventh BOIDC title, but the Saints had other ideas. The usual suspects of Orange City and Rugby Union helped to make up 4 of the top 5 positions, with City Colts claiming the final place after an amazing final round of cricket. Before that Saturday, City Colts and ORC were level on points. A bonus point win could have been the difference in the end, but amazingly both teams produced a bonus point result to remain in the same table positions at the end. What an amazing return to first grade cricket it was for ORC. After a couple of seasons out of the top grade they returned to be more than just competitive, going ever-so-close to claiming a place in the finals.

I once again would like to thank this season's Committee. The 6 of us catch up regularly during the season which helps ensure we are on top of any issues that may arise so that the season can run as smoothly as possible. So what does next season hold? At this stage, life has returned to a relative covid-normal so we are expecting a season full of one day and two day cricket.

The grounds were in fantastic nick all season. That was one positive for us among all the rain. The other was that we were lucky in that we only lost 3 weekends of our cricket. It certainly could have been a lot more when you see what happened elsewhere around the state. But as I said we were lucky and had grounds as green as they probably have ever been during cricket season which was quite different to a 'normal' summer. On the subject of grounds, it was good to see works at Bathurst Sportsground all but finished and hopefully it will be back online at some stage next season. I'm sure the players will be looking forward to testing out the new surface.

We have also included some historical competition records in the annual report this year. It is fantastic to have those records on display and able to look back on what has happened in seasons gone by, particularly in the previous iteration of BOIDC. This annual report also includes a summary of the season just gone as well as some of the news articles featured in our local newspapers during the season, making for a great snapshot of our season.

Thank you to all of the clubs for their work in providing teams for people to play cricket in. I know a lot of work goes on at club level to make that all of that happen and your efforts are truly appreciated. For me, it has been an honour to serve as your Chairman again this season, and I look forward to the opportunity to do it again.

Mark Frecklington

IN THE NEWS - JULY 14 2021

New team confirmed to BOIDC as Orange City looks to defend title

Jake Humphreys

WINNERS: At least half a dozen players from Oberon's second-grade premiership side will compete in the BOIDC this summer.

It's been three years since Oberon fielded a squad in the region's top-flight cricket competition, but the Tigers are set to return to the Bathurst Orange Inter District title race this summer.

After the second grade unit claimed the premiership in 2020-21, the club got together and decided a return to first-grade was needed.

BOIDC chairman Mark Frecklington is happy to welcome any new or returning club to the competition, and is stoked to see the Tigers return. "We'll always entertain clubs jumping on board if they want to," he said. "They used to be one of the stronger clubs in the competition."

While the BOIDC schedule hasn't been confirmed yet, Frecklington expect all sides from last year to compete again, with Oberon being the extra. "There won't be any massive changes but obviously we've got the new team coming in," he said.

Formerly with City Colts, Oberon product Dave Sellers will return to his hometown club and looks to fill-in as captain in the first season.

"We are glad to be back in the comp, he said. "We are a proud successful club with a long history, and first-grade is where we should be. "We are hoping to be competitive, win a few games, and maybe sneak into the finals."

As for the type of players on the rosters, Sellers has indicated there will be somewhat of a blend. "We've got 4-5 experienced guys who have won comps in Bathurst before," he said. "There's also some exciting young guys coming through who can be serious cricketers."

It's one thing to have success in second-grade, but Sellers acknowledges the difficulties of taking on the top-tier. "There's obviously a step-up into first grade but we've got the potential to do well," he said.

"Wayne Sellers is our key player and everyone would agree. When he's switched on, he's one of the most damaging bats in the zone."

IN THE NEWS - AUGUST 17 2021

Kinross drops out of Bathurst Orange Inter District Cricket top flight for 2021-22

Nick McGrath

Kinross won't be part of this summer's Bathurst Orange Inter District Cricket competition.

The students will step back from the region's top flight and instead look to foster the young players that often make up the core of Kinross' First XI by playing in the Orange District Cricket Association's second grade side.

BOIDC boss Mark Frecklington confirmed the move on Monday. Also the long-standing ODCA president, Frecklington knows Kinross has had to battle hard for a number of seasons to field a competitive side over summer.

The students often star in the short forms of the game, and more than hold their own in the Twenty20 format with sublime fielding a pillar of their performances.

But building pressure, batting time and playing consistent cricket in longer forms of the game, like that on the BOIDC schedule, has been a huge issue.

Throw in the fact a host of the students' best players aren't available during school holidays and fielding teams, let alone winning games, is tough for Kinross.

Added to that, the students' best player last summer, George Cummings - he took 21 wickets at a clip under 25 each and hit nearly 250 runs over the course of the season - is graduating this year and won't play for Kinross.

From 13 rounds in the 2020-21 BOIDC premiership, the students didn't win a game. They finished 24 competition points off their nearest rival, the ninth-placed Centrals.

Frecklington said remaining competitive was the biggest issue for all clubs, but Kinross' quest was made all the more difficult given the bulk of their side is school-aged, with the likes of Ben Ronald and Dave Hunter, and in the past Stu Crisp, senior players stepping up to fill that leadership void at the club.

"To be honest, a move like this has been close for a few years for Kinross. They're been potentially in this situation for a few years," Frecklington said.

He said Kinross' First XI will now play in the ODCA's second grade, as will the school's Second XI. "They'll have the two sides in seconds," he confirmed.

Oberon will fill become that 10th side in the BOIDC for the looming summer.

Frecklington didn't have much more detail on the upcoming season other than confirming 10 teams will be in this year's BOIDC.

He said the ever-looming COVID situation in NSW and across the Western local health district could have an impact, but "it was too far out to be worried about it yet".

IN THE NEWS - OCTOBER 10 2021

Prospective BOIDC cricket players won't be able to take the field without both COVID-19 vaccinations

Jake Humphreys

If you're not vaccinated, you don't play.

That's the Bathurst Orange Inter District Cricket Association M.O ahead of the 2021-22 campaign as aspiring players who haven't received both COVID-19 vaccinations won't be able to take the field until December 1.

It's part of a Cricket New South Wales crackdown that aims to provide players, coaches and spectators with the safest possible environment.

Central West Cricket boss Mark Frecklington says his competition is set to follow all advice from the powers that be.

"Before December 1, only those who have been fully vaccinated will be allowed to play," he said.

"I don't think it will make too much of an impact to playing numbers. Looking at the vaccination rates in Orange and Bathurst, the first doses are up around the 90 per cent mark.

"The numbers of people who aren't vaccinated will be low. But, if you are planning on getting vaccinated, make it earlier rather than later."

As it stands, the BOIDC calendar is set to officially kick-off on October 30 as five games are slated for opening weekend.

While Orange-based squads have been able to train for some time now, teams from Bathurst will officially be allowed to meet up to train on Monday, giving them 19 days to fine-tune their chemistry before day one.

"Everything's on track and looking good ahead of round one," he said.

The first round will feature a plethora of exciting contests as Cavaliers will host City Colts in one of the more evenly-poised contests of the weekend.

Bathurst City and CYMS will lock horns at Orange, while Centennials Bulls have their work cut out for them with a match against Orange City at George Park.

Early premierships favourites St Pat's Old Boys will welcome Oberon back to the competition, while Centrals will host Rugby Union.

IN THE NEWS - JANUARY 20 2022

BOIDC moves to a one-day format for remainder of 2021-22 season due to COVID-19

Alexander Grant

THE Bathurst Orange Inter District Cricket competition will be shifting to one day matches for the remainder of the 2021-22 season in response to the threat of COVID-19 disrupting team lineups.

The competition was due to have another pair of one day fixtures before finishing the regular season with three straight two day matches.

However, with teams being affected by the rise on COVID-19 cases across the region - whether directly or through isolation - there was a looming threat that clubs would struggle to manage team lineups throughout their grades over a two-week stretch.

BOIDC's committee made the decision on Tuesday night to adjust the calendar so that it only features one-day fixtures up until the finals series.

The decision was an easy one for officials to make, according to BOIDC president Mark Frecklington.

"We decided to make the decision to move to one-dayers. It was a decision that felt almost automatic," he said.

Frecklington said in such an environment of uncertainty week to week it was important to remove as many headaches for teams as possible.

"Right across the board COVID makes it difficult for every club if they have to keep chopping and changing their sides around, especially in Bathurst where they have two day games in their lower grades as well," he said.

"It's probably a bit impractical for teams to find replacements, especially when you don't know how many players you might have to move for that second week.

"We're effectively reinstating the official draw we had before COVID forced us to start the season a bit later. We've been able to reinstate those two rounds at the end that were there originally."

The change could give the slightest of advantage to teams currently inside the finals spots, as it takes away the opportunity for outright victories to be earned.

On the other side of the coin, the chance for those teams inside the top five to further their existing advantage has been limited. Bonus point victories will also be more important than ever before.

Cavaliers through to BOIDC grand final as Orange City bow out

Riley Krause

A classic one-two punch by a couple of Cavaliers has propelled them into the Bathurst and Orange Inter District Cricket competition grand final.

Hugh Middleton (38) strolled to the crease with the minor premiers in trouble in their qualifying final against Rugby Union on Saturday.

Cavs were 5-85, a score which quickly turned to 6-88, before Middleton and Mitch Black (29 not out) salvaged the innings.

"I think it was just try and bat out the 50 while trying to keep ticking over the scoreboard. Just don't let us lose our wickets cheaply," Middleton said of his partnership with Black.

"We would've liked a bit more on the board, but in the end we set a total and that's all we could do."

The pair put on 48 to help Cavs reach 162 before they were bowled out in the 48th over, about 40 runs short of what they had hoped for on a flat Wade Park wicket.

"We were pretty confident because we knew our bowling attack and our fielding were up to standard," Middleton added.

One of those bowlers who came up pick was Hugh Britton. He picked up 4-36 off ten overs, including the big wicket of in-form Rugby batter Brad Glasson for just 26.

"We said before we even bowled the first ball that finals cricket is a different game," Britton said.

"If you've got runs on the board and you can keep yourself in the game then anything can happen."

Rugby looked in control with the score at 2-87, but the wickets of Imran Qureshi (42) and brother Jameel (1) quickly brought Cavs back in the game. From then on out, the wickets started to tumble in regular intervals and Rugby were bowled out for 154.

"We pride ourselves on our fielding and we took three really good catches during the day," Britton added.

"Mitch Black (1-21) bowled really well at the start of the innings. At second drinks they needed about 40 and we took a few wickets, bowled a few dot balls and all of a sudden they're needing six runs an over.

"Harry Pearce (1-32) and Kyle Buckley (1-36) as per usual finished the job for us."

The other match on the day saw Orange City take on City Colts at Riawena with the loser eliminated from the competition altogether.

The Warriors didn't have the same luck as their cross-town rivals as they would lose by 75 runs.

The home side bowled first and picked up a few early wickets thanks to Ed Morrish (3-30) and Andrew Rutledge (4-38).

Josh Toole (45) and Oliver Shoemark (35 not out) would get the visitors back in the game as they posted 182 before being bowled out in the 48th over.

The Warriors run chase never really got going, with none of the top seven making it to 20.

Captain Brett Causer (30) would show some resistance at the end, but the task proved too much and they were bowled out for 107.

City Colts were then set the task of taking on St Pat's Old Boys on Sunday, with the winner to play Rugby for the final spot in the grand final.

St Pat's chase their fourth BOIDC win in a row in order to make a grand final return

Alexander Grant

THERE'S three teams left in the race for the Bathurst Orange Inter District Cricket title but only one of them has won their last three games in a row.

St Pat's Old Boys go into this Saturday's preliminary final against Rugby Union as the competition's momentum side, with a victory over the waiting grand finalists Cavaliers part of that recent winning run.

The Saints were clinical in their recent dismantling of City Colts and are looking to take more of that brand of cricket into this clash.

Pat's skipper Adam Ryan said a date with Rugby is a game that always delivers on quality.

"It's a match we always look forward to, and it's one that we thought would have made for a great grand final but that wasn't to be, because both of us didn't perform where we needed to in order to get to that

"These two teams boast a lot of the rep players so it's funny how it's played out that they're the two teams still cracking along in finals. We're just so excited about this time of year, and prospect of knockout cricket is fun and it brings the best out of everyone."

Gaining momentum is always a positive in the eyes of Ryan but he doesn't want it to lead to any sense of complacency from his side.

"We come in with momentum and confidence on the back of our last games," he said.

"But again, you learn a lot from a loss and you can get complacent from a win. We just want to keep things as simple as possible, regardless of who we're playing."

The semi-final success over Colts was the Saints producing some of their best cricket of the season, with the likes of Nic Broes, Matt Fearnley and Connor Slattery all stepping up for the occasion.

Broes hit 62 in a century partnership with Andrew Brown to set up the successful chase while Fearnley and Slattery each took three wickets.

It's that continual rotation of standout players week after week that has been one of the high points of the season for Ryan.

"I think the way we went about that last game - getting to the 100 with all our wickets still in hand, and plenty of overs left to chase - let's us know that we've got extra gears there.

"It's great to still see multiple contributors. We've seen great versatility through to team from one through to 12, with bat and ball. It certainly makes my job easier when I know something's not working and we can throw something different at the problem.

"Our spinners have done a great job in this shorter format of building pressure through the middle overs."

Pat's are still in the hunt for the Bonnor Cup-BOIDC double.

The match at George Park 1 will get underway from 11am.

St Pat's Old Boys beat Cavaliers in BOIDC final for 2022

Bailey Brien, Matthew Fearnley and Angus Parsons will go down in St Pat's Old Boys folklore after they helped guide their side to a nail-biting grand final victory.

Saints took down the Bathurst and Orange Inter District Cricket minor premiers-ship-winning Cavaliers at Wade Park on Saturday by 23 runs to do the double on the year after they beat Cavs in the Royal Hotel Cup less than a month earlier.

"It's a pretty special day, winning a first grade premiers-ship. This sort of thing doesn't happen very often, so when it does it's all the more special," Brien said following a man of the match performance which saw him smash a 63-ball 72 to help his side finish their innings at 8-224.

"I was just looking to be busy, keep ticking the strike over and do my role. I was seeing the ball pretty well so I thought we were a chance of a good score. It was pretty nervous when it was crunch time, I thought it could go either way but our bowlers stood up. They've done it all year and they did it again today."

Things didn't start off great for the Bathurst outfit after Nic Broes was run out for just six by Wes Lummis, before Cooper Brien (seven) fell to the bowling of Harry Pearce.

Connor Slattery's arrival at the crease helped the visitors pick up the pace, but when he fell for 40, St Pat's were 4-111 with just 17 overs remaining.

Bailey Brien was then aided by knocks from Adam Ryan (26) and Angus Parsons (16 not out off nine balls), to help set a tricky total. Harry Pearce (3-43) finished with the best figures for the minor premiers.

Things couldn't have gotten off to a worse start for Cavs with the bat however, as they slumped to 3-7 in the run chase.

This brought skipper Matt Corben and Bailey Ferguson (19) together who got them back in the game with a 44-run partnership.

Lummis came into bat with the departure of Ferguson and continued to score at a good clip. He and Corben saw the total sail past 130, but the duo would soon depart in quick succession, first Lummis for 53 and then Corben for 51.

All hope looked lost for Cavs when Hugh Middleton went out to bat, but that was far from the case.

He smashed a run-a-ball 43, but needing to score at ten an over, he holed out in the deep with Cavs on 201 to seal the win for St Pat's.

"They were very good in the finals this year and really good in the big games," Corben said of the victors.

"To get minor premiers is a massive achievement but we just couldn't get it done in the big dance.

"For Hugh Middleton to get us to 200 after we were three for crap all was a really good dig. St Pat's were just too good."

Matt Fearnley (3-40) and Angus Parsons (3-33) were given the arduous task of bowling at the death and executed to perfection.

"That's just my job to bowl. I knew we had to bowl at the stumps. We had to get wickets and I thought Gus bowled unreal," Fearnley said.

"I've played for the club for ten years now. We've had a Bathurst first grade comp win but to get the BOIDC is just absolutely unreal.

"A lot of juniors in this club are all patch juniors, so to play first grade with them and see them come up through the ranks is an honour."

Fearnley doubled up on trophies, as he was also awarded the bowling honour for most wickets in the season
